To March Monday

Mothers Take Up Fight vs. Polio

Hundreds of porch lights will glow in Palm Beach county Monday night when residents will be asked to open their hearts and pocketbooks to an army of marching mothers who will be calling on their neighbors for contributions to aid the fight against infantile paralysis. As the county marks its annual Mothers March on polio, traditional finale to the annual March of Dimes campaign, more than 2,000 mothers are expected to take part in the doorknob crusade which will get underway at 7 p.m.

As in past years, home owners who wish to make a contribution to the Mothers March are asked to leave their porch lights burning during the time of the house-to-house campaign. The porch light over the years has become the symbol of the Mothers March—a fund campaign activity that each year accounts for a major portion of money which goes to combat polio and to finance research for such programs as the Salk vaccine experiments.

With zero hour set, a score of community chairman are making final plans for the march which will be conducted in nearly every community in the county.

Most of the Mothers March chairman have expressed a need for additional volunteers to work for a short period during the night of the house to house campaign. Workers are asked to contact the following community chairmen to register for the Mothers March.

West Palm Beach—Mrs. Gaston Duval or call March of Dimes headquarters, telephone 3-5122; Palm Beach — Mrs.

James Butler; Juno Beach — Mrs. W. L. Dowler; Jupiter — Miss Marie Cross; Lake Worth — Mrs. Fred Calder; Pahokee — Mrs. Clark Wilkinson; Belle Glade — Mrs. Howard Payne; Gulfview — Mrs. Thomas Cochran; Boca Raton — Mrs. John Olsson; Yach Harbor — Mrs. Jerry Kelly; Palm Beach Shores — Mrs. Beaumont Davison; Boynton Beach — Miss Elsie Tomlinson; Riviera Beach — Mrs. Jack Talbot; Delray Beach — Mrs. Elizabeth DeParlier and Mrs. Thelma Stark; West Palm Beach, who has charge of the county's Negro communities.

On Jan. 1 there were nearly a million fewer Americans on farms than at the same time last year.

Aftermath Of Recent Cold Spell Brings Warning To Cattlemen

New Port Is Named

PAHOKEE — This city's spanking new port and break water, now under construction, will be known as Pahokee Harbor upon completion.

The name was selected by a committee representing City Council and the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting of Council Monday night.

The winning name was submitted by Edgar Allen Pope, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Pope.

Entries in the contest to name the city's $12,493 installation were sealed and were not opened until the meeting. The youth who submitted the winning name received a $25 War Savings Bond.

Council also extended to March 6 the time limit for completion of the project. The extension was granted Cleary Bros., West Palm Beach, after the construction firm explained it had experienced difficulty in obtaining steel for the work.

In other action Monday, Council voted to rehire William Rhodes as city auditor for the next fiscal year and accepted his report on the waterworks and the city for 1954-55; installed as Police Chief, Leola Guthrie to collect personal property taxes now due, revealed that a blinker light is, located at the intersection of Barfield Hwy., and Belle Glade Rd., and disclosed that all roads in Verville now have been paved.

Lunch Stand Loot Estimated at $100

CANAL POINT — Loss was estimated at $100 after a thief broke into the fruit and lunch stand operated by Phil Williamson.

Entrance was gained by forcing a window, then crawling over the hot plate in the restaurant. In so doing, the thief knocked over a glass coffee maker. It was demolished.

The thief broke open the cash register and two tax money containers and took flashlights, cigarettes and a quantity of costume jewelry.

The same night, D. T. Connell's and the Quality Market were broken into, but the thief was unable to get anything since he entered doors which do not lead into the stores proper.

On Jan. 1 there were nearly a million fewer Americans on farms than at the same time last year.

PAHOKEE — Troop 28 Boy Scouts, accompanied by Scoutmaster Louis F. Mims, and Neighborhood Commissioner Ed Carver, plan to attend the State Fair in Tampa next weekend.

After school Thursday, Feb. 2, the Scouts will go to the home of Scoutmaster Mims where the troop bus and trailer will be waiting to be loaded for the trip.

They will camp out in the Tampa area Thursday and Friday nights, attend the fair all day Friday, go to Sarasota for a guided tour through the Ringling Museum Saturday, then return home Saturday night.

In a recent survival camping trip to Big Cypress Swamp near the Seminole Indian Reservation, Troop 28 Scouts, accompanied by Mims and Carver, lived off the land.

Sunburn Is Serious

Cattlemen in the South Florida area have been warned by R. W. Kidder, animal husbandman at the Everglades Experiment Station, to be on the lookout for two serious aftermaths of the recent cold weather. Both are extremely harmful to cows, he added.

One is photosensitization, which means sunburn of a specific type. The other is the presence of butterweed, a toxic plant which was not destroyed by the cold spell.

Mr. Kidder explained that if the weather is warm for two weeks following the recent frosts, a black mold can be expected to appear on the frozen grass, especially Bermuda grass.

"The moldy grass alone does not sunburn the cow unless some green grass is available," he said. "When green grass is consumed with or following the moldy grass, the cow becomes sensitive to sunlight and the skin becomes red, or white spots, become severely sunburned."

To prevent this condition, destroy the frozen Bermuda grass before the mold appears, or move cattle to other pastures."

In regard to butterweed, Mr. Kidder offered the following explanation: "Senecio lobatus" or butterweed is not known here now and looks somewhat like a dandelion plant. When mixed with other plants and grasses at this stage the cattle will eat it.

"How much is enough to make cattle sick or to kill them is not known. Now is the time to destroy this weed. In this stage of growth it can be killed with 2,4-D. Cattle avoid it later when the seed spikes and yellow blossom appear."

"Animals affected with Senecio poisoning have what is called 'Walking Disease.' They may

2 Water Hydrants Found Open Here

PAHOKEE — R. B. Simonson, water commissioner, and R. J. Schroder, waterworks superintendent, are on the lookout for vandals who opened two hydrants late Wednesday night.

A highway patrolman found one hydrant gushing water on Point Rd., shortly after 10 p.m. and notified the waterworks. An hour later, a hydrant on Bacon Point Rd., was found open.

Simonson pointed out that the city's two tanks are filled daily before midnight, and if the hydrants are opened between midnight and 5 a.m. the city's supply would be exhausted, leaving residents in a critical condition.

Persons found opening the hydrants will be punished severely, officials warned.

Test Well Is Inadequate, City Commission Is Told

BELLE GLADE — This city's test well has offered no proof that it will produce water sufficient for the municipal supply, the commission was told by Russell & Axon, consulting engineers, Daytona Beach, at its meeting Wednesday night.

The engineers recommended, however, that the city make its anticipated water plant improvements for handling lake water and use the well for a one-year test period. Water produced by the well is good and could be used without treatment in the event of an emergency, the engineers said.

Commission members authorized the engineering firm to draw up plans for water supply and plant improvements, and paid the engineers fees totaling $12,372. The money is for bringing the sewerage survey up to date and for making additions necessary to the water supply and sewerage.

The commission was told that work will begin soon on the health center. The city will begin clearing the site back of the water plant on NW Ave. B and will provide rock for a driveway and parking area.

The commission also opened bids on the $2,000,000 proposed bond issue for sewage, water and incinerator improvements, and turned them over to City Manager C. E. Robinson, Attorney Claude Jones and the engineering firm for recommendations.

TIME TO ANTE UP—The Florida State Democratic Executive Committee is out to raise some money for its war chest. Figuring that the influx of Republicans will call for greater committee work money, the committee has set out to make the committee strong by filling its long-time depleted coffers.

At a recent meeting, members of the Florida Congressional delegation promised to help. They are now in the process of raising their "share" for the committee. Each is approaching the problem differently.

Billy Matthews is staging a Democratic rally and dinner at Lake City, hopes to raise his money from the profits. Others have asked local leading citizens to ante up here and there. At least one has called on county officials in his district to make a fairly reasonable quota. Looks like success for Jimmie Miller.

Although no definite quota was set, a close guess is that about $17,000 will be raised. FLORIDA'S G.P. has been Florida's amazing growth has skyrocketed the Fourth Congressional District into the number one spot in the United States for population. The heaviest populated district is Harris county (Houston, Tex.) which is represented by Albert Thomas. Population 896,701.

Recent figures, released by the Bureau of the Census, show that Dade county has a population of 703,777. Add the 1950 figure of 28,957 for Monroe county and you have 732,734 for the Fourth District. Average for Congress is about 385,000.

Besides being a "concentration fact," the oversized district means that Congressman Dante Fascell, of Miami, has one of the heaviest workloads in Congress—just naturally more people who can write to him about their problems.

ANYONE FOR CONGRESS? While everybody is talking about who will be running for governor, several already have announced for Congress.

Although it is assumed here that all members of the Florida Congressional delegation will run to keep their present jobs, none has yet made a formal announcement. But several would like to come to Washington (as replacements) have announced their intentions of trying.

In the Third District, Arthur Barker, a Democrat, has announced against Rob Sikes. Barker is Sikes' usual opponent. This will be the third time he has tried to unseat the "he-coon." And in the Fourth District, Ellis Rubin, a Republican, seems all set to run against Dante Fascell, Democrat.

Jim Haley, Congressman from the Seventh District, has two Democrats after his job: Leonard Carter, of Lakeland, and Leffert L. Mayfield, of Wauchula. Up to now, these are the only signs of definite activity on this front, although Graham, Florida's lone Republican member, certainly will have Democratic opposition. But that race is still in the rumor stages.

Even though a number of men might announce, some will surely fail to qualify when the time comes—because it will cost a Democrat $1,125 to get his name on the ballot this year (5 per cent of the congressman's $22,500 salary). So, you can be sure that folks will think twice before they actually file. That should cut out of the races anyone who wants to run merely for the fun of it or for personal publicity only.

SALUTE TO A PRINCESS—Now to be addressed as "your highness" is Miss Betty Ann Bradford, secretary on the staff of Senator Smathers. Miss Bradford was selected by the Florida State Society to represent Florida at the annual ball honoring "Miss Confederacy" staged by the Virginia Society here.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Schatzl is taking the windy air of Ohio. She will resume barking in this space upon her return, unless she finds words to write earlier.

BPW CONCURS WITH C-C ON TRESTLE REBUILDING

BELLE GLADE — The regular business meeting of the B.P.W. was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ueba Carruthers. After hearing a letter from R. W. Lanier, president of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce on the matter, the club voted to go on record favoring the rebuilding of the trestle in its present position to standard width and height.

A letter was received from R. J. Allen Jr., vice president of the steering committee for the formation of an area Girl Scout council asking for a representative of the club to serve on a local fund raising committee. The club voted in favor of helping the Girl Scout movement in this way, and a representative will be named to the committee. New members voted into the club were Mrs. Helen Morris, Mrs. Ruth Snyder, Miss Jane Allen, Mrs. Margaret Royals, and Mrs. Corinne Titworth.

"FISH LADDER"

Real fish ladders of the great Pacific Northwest salmon country carry salmon an average of 100 feet to the crest of dams, as the salmon migrate up rivers to spawning grounds. At Grand Coulee and McNary dams, the fish ladder is 182 feet.

Resting pools and jumping depths are provided for the fish when the salmon must take to return to the stream wherein it started life. Development of fish ladders and fishways constitutes a vital aspect of the conservation of the Alaska, Puget Sound and Columbia River salmon.

Every year the canned salmon industry of these areas join in promoting National Canned Salmon Week to mark the start of the Spring Lenten season.

Salmon are caught and canned at the time of perfect form after they have become fat and sleek from roaming the ocean, and have achieved prime condition in readiness for their long journey up fish ladders and fishways to their streams to spawn.

point where the lake is now expected to drop below elevation 12.56 feet within a month. The lake stage Jan. 10, was 12.7 feet.

If rainfall is normal during the next five months the lake could be expected to drop as low as 11.8 feet. The navigable depth would thereby be reduced to 7.24 feet by June 1, after which the level should be raised by summer rains.

If the next five months are as dry as the past few months, the lake could drop to 10.5 feet, reducing the navigable depth to 5.84 feet by June 1.

Navigational interests are cautioned to take the low stage of Lake Okeechobee into consideration. Later information on lake levels can be secured from the Jacksonville or Clewiston offices of the Corps of Engineers.

WOOD CARVING QUEBEC FAMILY TRADITION

Using a razor-sharp tool, Paul Emil Caron has to have a steady hand as he carves a shirt button hole on the basswood figure.

WOOD carving has been developed to a fine art in the tiny hamlet of Saint Jean Port Joli on the south shore of the mighty St. Lawrence River less than 60 miles east of Quebec City on the main line of the Canadian National Railways from Montreal to Halifax.

The art of wood carving in tiny Saint Jean Port Joli has been passed down from generation to generation; father to son and even father to daughter. Usually the intricate work has been done by the men of the family but within recent years women have been given training in the artistic trade.

It takes at least two years to become a wood carver of moderate skill but "ten years or even a lifetime is better" the old timers contend.

The thousands of Saint Jean Port Joli wood carvings, ranging all the way from tiny statuettes so small that they have been used to decorate the heads of knitting needles, to life-size figures, are sold throughout the world, most of them being exported to the United States, some as collector's items.

The carvers use both seasoned pine and basswood for their artistic masterpieces, both native-grown in Quebec Province.

This old wooden salt, life sized and made entirely from seasoned Quebec pine, lends a realistic touch to a Saint Jean Port Joli street scene. Celyne Hudson lights the old "man" pipe (carefully because she doesn't want to ignite him).

with his mother, Mrs. Thelma Stevens. He returns to Gainesville to play in the University Band at the mid-year graduation exercises.

Albert Stevens is in Gainesville this week for introduction to the Federal Farm Management Administration with which he is now affiliated. He will then spend the next eight weeks in Ft. Myers where he will receive introduction training, after which he will be stationed in Lake Worth. He is the son of Mrs. Thelma Stevens, and has recently been employed in Miami as a medical technician.

They Can't Believe Their Ears!

The sound of their own voices coming out of a little box is pretty astonishing to this group of African natives of the Sambari tribe. Their American visitor, noted photographer, Miki Carter, is carrying an Ampex Model 600 tape recorder and a Model 620 amplifier-speaker with him on his current eight month long coast-to-coast safari through Africa. Along with shooting film sequences for Hollywood's Tarnan series, Carter is recording the sounds of life in the jungle for movie soundtracks. Although Carter also played tapes of American jazz for them, the Sambari, like people everywhere, seem to enjoy the sound of their own voices.

Young and talented, this hard-working couple formed the basis for the feature story, "Wave As You Pass," in the January issue of the Ladies Home Journal. They are man and wife in real life.

The rear of the two-part truck outfit in which the Neals travel while on tour is painted with the infectious, friendly greeting, which is a keynote to their personalities.

Allison Neal's wardrobe, the ladies will be interested in learning, was converted into Vogue patterns for January 1956. Her evening costumes, by C. Wells, Couturier, to Queen Elizabeth, are not generally available.

She is a former Australian child prodigy who has been always has been noted for its great technical accuracy. Mr. Neal, a native Tennesseean, also is a brilliant and versatile artist.

They met while both were students at the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia, began playing two pianos together, were married and today are in great demand in the concert field. They live in Paris, Tenn.

walk in a circle, backward or forward or into fences, ditches or other obstructions. The illness and death may develop immediately or may not appear for several weeks after the toxic weed was consumed.

"Consult your county agent or nearest Experiment Station personnel for instructions and precautions in the use of 2,4-D." Use of 2,4-D has been controversial in the Glades area, due to the danger of the spray vapor (usually from 2,4-D ester) rather than amine form "drifting" to vegetable and other susceptible crops which it harms.

Dangers of contamination from 2,4-D can be minimized if the spray is properly used, Dr. Robert J. Allen Jr., agronomist at the Everglades Experiment Station at Belle Glade, informed the OBSERVER.

Dr. Allen says that only the amine form of 2,4-D should be used in the Glades to combat Butterweed and other weeds in pastures. He recommends a flat spray of 2,4-D and use of 20 to 30 pounds of pressure (rather than the higher pressure used in some spraying).

Generally the "drift danger" of 2,4-D occurs when spraying is done when the wind velocity is above 10 miles per hour (a high breeze) or in fields where dust contaminated with 2,4-D can be stirred up by tractors and can carry the toxic dust to susceptible plants.

But pasture spraying can be done with minimum danger potential if amine 2,4-D at low pressure is used, and if spraying is done when the wind is low, Dr. Allen says. To be safe, he recommends that spraying be avoided if within a quarter of a mile of vegetable crops, "especially if the wind is in the wrong direction."

For conservative but effective use in pastures, one pound of amine 2,4-D (about one quart) of 40 per cent commercial solution per 25 to 30 gallons of water should be applied per acre.

Sugar Company In New Building

The large group office adjoining the paymaster's office is occupied by the following payroll clerks: Mrs. A. T. (Martha) Holt, Mrs. J. D. (Dorothy) Stacy, Mrs. Earl (Juanita) Bracewell and Mrs. Adaline Stuckey. The other large office is occupied by George Kingsley, water plant and construction foreman; Elmer Maxson, a time keeper; Bryant Plantation Supervisor H. D. Rodgers, and Bryant Plantation Foreman D. P. Hughes. Nat Edwards is the office boy and janitor.

Plans for the building were drawn in the Clewiston office, and presented at the close of the '55 harvest to the construction foreman, George Kingsley, together with plans for two houses. The three buildings were completed by the fall harvest season.

The old, two-story wooden office building served as administrative building and commissary and the upstairs was used as apartments for the commissary manager, field foreman, office help and mechanics. The commissary and manager moved into a new building in 1954.

In 1952 the Southern Sugar Company changed to the U. S. Sugar Corporation. The beginning in '22 records were kept for 100 men and a small acreage of cane. They now stand as follows: 700 foreign laborers, 100 domestic laborers and about 50 foremen, mechanics, carpenters, plumbers, painters, and commissary managers. The Eastern Division now consists of approximately 12,000 acres of sugar cane.

County To Work On McClure Road

Progress reports on several county road and bridge projects were heard at the county commission at its regular meeting Monday.

Of top importance, was a report on the county's $5-million bond issue which is being readied for validation by the Florida Improvement Commission and will be used to finance a number of road and bridge projects in the county. The bonds will be repaid by county gas taxes.

After hearing that the proposed bond issue had been cleared by the FIC, the commission instructed County Engineer Steve Middleton to take what steps are necessary to see that all projects listed in the bond issue are included in the State Road Department's budget beginning July 1.

Chairman Paul Rardin, in another action, upon support of the commission to call for bids on repaving McClure Road at Pahokee. Cost of the project is estimated at $8,000.

Commissioner Kenneth Foster reported that State Road Department engineers had revised plans for rebuilding a section of U. S. Highway 1 between Juno Beach and Jupiter to include

New Shell Motor Oil Cuts Operating Costs

Motorists who do the family car type of driving are saving up to 12 per cent on gasoline and lubricating oil costs with the aid of a new motor oil formulation, it was announced by J. A. Renaker, Jember Representative for Shell Oil Company.

The savings have been proved in laboratory tests and in checks of car performance on the road, he said.

The formulation, an improved Shell X-100 Motor Oil Premium, also reduces deposits on intake valves and in top piston grooves. According to Mr. Renaker, better performance results from a new blend of base stocks, a new alkaline additive and improved oxidation stability. Other improvements resulting from the new formulation are greater sludge resistance, better ethylene glycol tolerance and ultra-high viscosity index, which protects the engine and improves its performance over a wide range of operating conditions. From 10-below-zero cold to desert heat, the product retains the antiwear, antioxidant and anticorrosion properties of the premium-type oil Shell introduced a year ago.

New Law Applies To All Motorists

TALLAHASSEE — Insurance Commissioner J. Edwin Larson appealed to all Florida motorists to take heed that the new Financial Responsibility law applies to all drivers involved, regardless of fault.

Commissioner Larson referred to the new law which makes effective Jan. 1, 1956, requiring all persons involved in accidents amounting to $50 property damage or personal injury to obtain future proof of financial responsibility or risk the loss of motoring privileges.

The insurance commissioner, as administrator of the new law, has emphasized also that suspension of driver's license or tags against out-of-state motorists will likewise be effected under new reciprocal agreements expected to be in operation soon between Florida and other states.

Larson said "we can no longer tolerate the extreme negligence of drivers who become involved in highway mishaps without any means for paying damages."

Liability insurance requirements under the new law are minimum coverages of $10,000 for injury to one person, $20,000 for two and $5,000 for property damages. Upon becoming involved in an accident, the motorist must either take out insurance or put up other collateral for a three-year period.
